

Belvedere and Tyrrell's Pop-up Bar Hits The Domain

The Pavilion on the Domain will play host to 'Spring in the City', a pop-up bar on Friday evenings and Sundays sponsored by Belvedere Vodka and Tyrrell's Wines. Welcoming the warmer weather, the new pop-up bar celebrates the weekends where you can relax and enjoy refreshing drinks with natural ingredients, under the beautiful trees within The Domain.

The Pavilion has forever been an iconic venue on the edge of The Domain popular for its unique events spaces perfect for garden parties, or with Sydneysiders looking for a bite to eat before or after a trip to the New South Wales Art Gallery.

Having undergone a refurbishment over the last three months and a new team on board, The Pavilion has a fresh new vibe boasting a contemporary new look, venue manager, chef and menu featuring cocktails, small bites and share plates perfect for afternoon drinks in the sun.

The new pop-up bar will roll out onto the city terrace, lawn and down under the trees, taking inspiration from Belvedere Vodka's latest campaign 'Under the Belvedere Tree'. Hosting live entertainment, you can sip on a Belvedere spritz for $12 and a variety of wines from Tyrrell's including the Royal Botanic Garden 200th Birthday wine collection from $8.

Recently appointed Head Chef, Shane Davey has created a fresh menu showcasing The Pavilion's new direction, with samples of small bites and bar snacks on Fridays including oysters, soft shell crab sliders and charcuterie boards. And in addition on Sundays, flavoursome scents of the robata grilling and paella cooking paired with fresh salads.

"We are embracing the farm to table journey which will shape the way we cook and encourage our guests to try a bit of everything. The heart of The Pavilion is its kitchen; the approach is more natural, continually evolving, where the emphasis is on where the food comes from, how it is grown and the relationship with our suppliers." Shane will lead the charge in the kitchen and is bringing a welcomed change to the menu this spring and summer.

Spring in the City will be popping up on Fridays and Sundays in November, launching on Friday, October 28 with a celebratory opening night.
